7,000 INDUSTRIES ACCEPT CODE

WHERE CITY LIGHT PLANTS ARE NOW OPERATING IN OHIO

JOHNSON TALK PLEDGES WORK BY LABOR DAY

Agreements Voluntarily Signed by Employers Throughout Nation

SPEAKS OVER RADIO

Minor Troubles Not to Interfere, Leader Says

WASHINGTON, July 26.—With 7,000 blanket code agreements voluntarily signed by employers, the nation was further cheered today on its drive to "happy days," following the radio address of Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, as he reiterated administration promises of 6,000,000 less unemployed by Labor day, the first Monday in September.

"Nothing will even hamper the president's industrial recovery program," Johnson assured his audience, as he likened the president's radio address to a war time appeal.

Johnson said:

"The simple reasoned, balanced and practical strategy and action that were laid before the country by the president came at an hour of trial as great and were as important to our people and as vital and effective as any of the great concept of our wars.

COUNTRY AROUSED

"This country understands all this. It approves all this. It has at last aroused. The president's ...

covery drive is under way. It is an irresistible march. The unemployed are already going back to work and Labor day has been set as the great objective.

"There are minor annoyances, but the only thing worth while mentioning is this great march out of the valley of despair, and begun last night—not here and there—not after weeks of hope deferred that maketh the heart sick, but under the banner of a great leader, in every village, and town and city in every part of the United States."

Johnson explained that the code "means that you will have to employ more people to do the same amount of work and that will increase your cost of doing business."

He continued:

"Of course there are ways to beat the rules of any game. We are just asking people in this

Roosevelt Thriving on Fast Pace of Work as Cabinet Wilts

WASHINGTON—Long before March 4, Liberty Magazine ran an article speculating on whether or not Franklin Roosevelt had the health and physical strength to carry the tremendous burden of the presidency.

Today, Roosevelt impresses everyone who meets him as the most virile, dynamic and healthy president who has occupied the White House in many years.

He is working long hours and at a terrific pace, but he does not show the signs of fatigue like many of his cabinet members. This is partly because Roosevelt is an excellent executive, knows how to delegate responsibility, partly because his torso, arms and shoulders are like steel, partly because he takes good care of himself, as witness his recent four-day rest when he was threatened with a bad cold.

Inflation Advice

Two of President Roosevelt's most erudite professional advisers, after several weeks' study of the administration's recovery measures have secretly reached the conclusion that they are insufficient to break the back of the depression. Only inflation, in the form of stupendous public works expenditures, will turn the trick in their opinion.

The two economic experts are Professor James Harvey Rogers, Yale, and Professor George F. Warren, Cornell. Warren is co-author of a recent book advocating cutting the gold content of the dollar as a depression solution.

The two men were summoned to Washington recently by the President to make a survey of the Administration's economic and fiscal policies. On the former they have already decided that neither the Industrial Recovery nor the Agricultural Adjustment acts are adequate to meet the demands of the crisis.

After 16 Years

Raymond Robbins, onetime emissary of Woodrow Wilson in Russia, has come back from another trip to that country and has given first hand reports to various members of Roosevelt's cabinet.

Sixteen years ago he was one man who tried to convince Wilson that the Soviets were in power for good. Now he is even more bullish on the Soviet future. He has reported to Roosevelt advisers that instead of fomenting world propoganda and revolution the Soviets are concentrating on building up Russia.

Sixteen years ago, Robbins knew Stalin as a clerk in the office of Lenin. In fact he used to brush by Stalin when the latter came out to ask what Robbins wanted to take up with Lenin.

Now Stalin is probably the most powerful man in the world—and the most inaccessable. It took Robbins several days to see him, and when the interview occurred, the Iron Man of Russia smiled faintly as they recalled the days when he was an office clerk.

Grain Debacle

THE shattering crash in grain prices last week had a secret inception two days before the market showed any signs of slipping. It was a confidential intimation that the Administration disapproved the skyrocketing of prices, was considering repressive measures. Following this the managers of the Chicago Board of Trade held a secret meeting, decided to take precautionary steps, and as a result, sent out an order requiring increased marginal deposits.

That was the tip-off to the big operators. They sensed something wrong, and began quietly to unload. The market which had been weakening soon ran amuck.

SCHOOL BOARD EMPLOYS NEW HI INSTRUCTOR

Miss Eleanor Ryan Named Second Commercial Teacher for City

CLASS IS CROWDED

Miss Rooney Resigns Grade School Job

Miss Eleanor Ryan, 1028 S. Court-st, was employed to teach commercial work at Circleville high school by the board of education Tuesday evening.

Due to an overflow in registrations in the commercial department for the next school term, it was necessary to employ someone to assist Virgil Cress, the newly-appointed commercial department instructor. Miss Ryan will be employed full time.

For some reason or the other there has been a unusual influx of students into commercial department work this year. Fewer registrations are found in the academic department.

GRADUATED HERE

Miss Ryan is well qualified for the position, having graduated from Circleville high school in 1926 and obtaining a Bachelor of Science degree in education at Ohio State university in 1930. She also studied commercial work at Office Training School, Columbus.

Last year she taught commercial work and physical education at the public school at Carey, O., and the year previous she taught history, English and physical education at Holy Redeemer School Portsmouth.

At Ohio State university Miss Ryan majored in history and minored in English and Physical education.

MISS ROONEY RESIGNS

The board of education at its meeting, Tuesday, also accepted the resignation of Miss Margaret Rooney, E. Union-st, who has been teaching in the grades at Franklin st school for the past two years. She resigned to complete her studies at Ohio State university where she expects to receive a Bachelor of Science degree in Education next June. She is majoring in English.

Janitors at the five school buildings in the city were also re-employed. They are John Stout, high school building; John Maiden, Corwin-st; George Milligan, Franklin-st; Steven Buskirk, High-st, and Charles E. Hill, Walnut-st.

DATE AWAITED FOR POSTMASTER TEST

Lancaster Civil Service Examination To Be Aug. 14, It Is Learned.

Early announcement was expected here today concerning the date for a civil service examination for the postmastership.

It was announced Tuesday that Lancaster's examination will be on August 14 and since the postmaster there resigned at request of Joseph P. O'Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general, the same procedure was followed here, it is believed the local examination will be held somewhere near that date.

C. A. Leist, county Democratic chairman, has received no word from the post office department concerning the date for this city, however. Nothing can be done until official notice is received.

Following the usual custom, from the three highest-rated in the examination one will be selected and recommended to the president for appointment.

The recommendation of the local party committees and of Mell G. Underwood, 11th district congressman, is expected to have much to do with the final selection.

The condition of John E. Hess, prominent Chillicothe miller and former Williamsport resident, who broke his back in a fall last week, is reported as good as can be expected.

City Plants in 42 Towns, But Exclusive Only in Six Cities - - 70 Ohio Towns Buy Current - - 84 Ohio Towns Have Quit Entirely

BY HENRY C. HAGLOCH.

Circleville is in excellent shape to float a bond issue for municipal light and water plants. The city's entire bonded debt is only $139,122.75 and this includes $11,800 special assessment bonds, which leaves only $127,322.75 general debt. But even this general debt need not all be met out of taxes as it includes $65,000 hospital bonds of which $20,000 will be paid from cash still on hand for this purpose from the Frank Berger estate.

Moreover, unless the amount set aside by the government for the purpose is exhausted by the time Circleville gets around to it, the United States under the recovery act is encouraging cities to build light and water plants where conditions warrant by giving the cities 30 per cent of the cost and loaning them, if necessary, the other 70 per cent.

DEMAND WILL BE TOO GREAT

This is an extraordinary offer and doubtless the demand will be much greater than the amount of money available. The United States is large and the long years of depression have left an aching void that the total $3,300,000,000 of the recovery act cannot begin to fill. It is safe to say that city and village councils have already drawn up plans calling for an expenditure of ten times this sum. Needless to say, either nine out of ten cities will be disappointed, or each city will be forced to accept only 1-10th the aid it hoped to get.

If the city is forced to sell its own bonds the market may not be as advantageous as it was when the majority of the city plants now operating were built.

Records show that there are few cities that do not successfully operate their own waterworks. The expenditure for waterworks is not so large as for a light plant, water needs only to be pumped instead of manufactured and is distributed in lines that do not wear out or change as do electric lines. The entire process is much simpler and much cheaper for water than for light. Furthermore most municipal light plants got on their feet under higher rates than are now prevailing.

Only six cities, that is towns of over 5,000 population, out of 110 in Ohio depend entirely upon municipal plants. There are 42 towns and cities that operate plants but many of them have central station power also and some operate in only part of the city, or furnish only the street lights. Seventy more Ohio towns and cities have abandoned or sold their electric generating plants but retained distribution systems, buying all energy from private companies. Eighty-four Ohio towns and cities have sold their plants and lines and now secure full electric service from private companies.

The 22 towns and six cities in Ohio wholly dependent on municipal light and power have a total population of only 104,988 or 1.58 per cent of the state's total population of 6,646,697.

BEGAN EARLY

Most municipal light plants had their inception back in the days before the present interlocking power network system of the privately-owned utilities was a reality and many plants were established in comparatively isolated small towns that were without service from a privately-owned company. On the other hand, there is no doubt that some municipal plants helped keep down the price of power and light not only in their own towns but in surrounding territory and their efforts have had an effect on the rate structure of the entire electrical business.

Many observers believe that the advantages and disadvantages of well operated city plants and well managed privately owned power and light companies just about balance. The city plant pays no taxes but it has no accumulated list of bondholders and possibly overcapitalized stock on which dividends must be paid. In other words the city plant, free of taxes and dividends need pay only the interest and meet its maturing bonds on the actual physical amount expended on the plant. On the other hand the privately-owned utility is now paying 14 cents taxes on every dollar of receipts and often has holders of watered stock, or a holding company, or some other form of overcapitalization to meet.

Thus the municipal plant has the big advantage in financing. But when it comes to operation the shoe seems on the other foot. The private company has years of experience, it has an organization of men who have been especially educated for the business through attendance at the best schools and by practical work. The private company has access to the best statistics and keeps abreast of all the new developments in the business. Its officers are keen business men who keep their position only because they show results.

STARTS AS EXPERIMENT

The average municipal light plant must of necessity start as an experiment. Sometimes the plant is lucky to get the right man at the start, often it is forced to costly experiments before a practical head is found who can satisfy the people and city council and at the same time keep abreast of a rapidly changing and highly scientific business. An Ohio city elects a new mayor and a new council every two years. The mayor appoints a service director who is in reality, by virtue of Ohio law, the real manager of the city's public utilities. City council is the board of directors. Often the service director and council members know nothing whatever about the city light plant or about the light

SMALL CITIES SLASHED FROM BUILDING PLAN

Fear Circleville's Post Office Project May Be Included in Cut

WORD IS AWAITED

Tobin Named Advisor for State's Loans

Fear that the post office construction project for this city might have been canceled from the list awaiting approval by the national budget bureau was expressed today when it was announced from Washington D. C. that "proposed buildings in small cities where the government can rent cheaper than build have been stricken from the list."

The Government now rents from Denny Pickens.

The building program costing $60,000,000 has been approved by the bureau as a part of the $3,300,000,000 public works program. Construction in many larger cities is included.

With the public works administration organization nearing completion, formal announcement of additional public buildings is expected soon. Thus far only 14 buildings costing $6,900,000 have been announced.

PRESSURE IS USED

The administration is being subjected to strong congressional pressure for a liberalization of its public buildings program.

Appointment of ten regional public works advisers by President Roosevelt was to be followed soon by the naming of advisory committee of three for each state.

With the completion of this list the public works administration will be prepared to move speedily to grant loans to states, counties and cities for job-creation work. Under the act the government will give 30 per cent and loan 70 per cent of the cost of the project. A movement is on foot here now to obtain the necessary money to construct a playground. This would

Jap Officer Confesses Plot To Kill Chaplin; Sought Japan-U. S. War

TOKYO, July 26.—A plot to assassinate Charlie Chaplin, British-born film comedian in 1932 in an effort to thrust The United States and Japan into a war was told from the witness stand today by a nationalistic sub-lieutenant of the Japanese navy.

The informer was sub Lieutenant Koga who testified at the trial of 10 naval officers involved in the assassination of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai on May 15, 1932.

He said the extremists planned to bomb the official residence of the premier during a reception for Chaplin, who was a visitor in Japan. The reception was cancelled, however.

The witness declared it was the hope of the extremists that Chaplin's death would throw Japan and the United States into war, "which was needed to rehabilitate the —Japanese spirit."

The plotters were part of an organization formed to establish martial law in Japan. They planned to hurl a bomb among the nation's most famous statesmen in the Diet but members of the blood brotherhood persuaded them to abandon the plan.

Koga is one of the army and navy men on trial.

Many Air Day Feats Planned

All Ships To Be On Field For Inspection At 11 A. M., Aug. 2.

PROGRAM AT 12:30

Kiwanis Banquet To Open Fourth 'Air Week.'

Circleville will witness one of the largest displays of aircraft ever staged in central Ohio when the local chapter of the National Aeronautical association stages its fourth annual Air Day celebration.

The committee in charge of the program has arranged to have all ships on the field by 11 a. m. the day of the event. All ships will be arranged in order that they may be inspected by the public until 12:30 p. m. when the program is scheduled to start. Many new and unusual features are planned for this year's show and the air-minded crowds are promised many thrills during the afternoon and evening's activities.

Ample free parking space will be available. All roads leading to the airport are hard-surfaced, the field being located three miles northwest of the city on the Goose Pond-pk.

Pre-air day activities begin Monday evening at 6:30 when the Kiwanis club sponsors a banquet with Lieut. John Grover of the British Royal Air corps and the U. S. army air corps, as the principal speaker. Tickets may be obtained from R. G. Colville, air club secretary; Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, or Tom A. Renick of the Kiwanis club.

BOY'S INJURY BASIS OF SUIT

Forrest Smith Sues Harley Hines; Previous Suit Asked $20,000.

Forrest Smith, of Groveport R. F. D. 1, filed a suit for $10,000 damages in common pleas court, Wednesday, against Harley Hines of Ashville.

The suit is a result of a collision in which Smith's son, Marvin, aged 5, is alleged to have been struck by a truck driven by Hines on the Groveport-Ashville-pk. May 12.

Smith alleges in the petition that his son's injuries have necessitated $2,000 hospital expenses and claims the other $8,000 because he will lose the services of Marvin Smith during the period of his minority.

A suit claiming $20,000 damages was filed by Marvin Smith, through his father, Forrest Smith, two weeks ago.

Jones and Henderson, of Columbus, are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

STARTS AS EXPERIMENT

The average municipal light plant must of necessity start as an experiment. Sometimes the plant is lucky to get the right man at the start, often it is forced to costly experiments before a practical head is found who can satisfy the people and city council and at the same time keep abreast of a rapidly changing and highly scientific business. An Ohio city elects a new mayor and a new council every two years. The mayor appoints a service director who is in reality, by virtue of Ohio law, the real manager of the city's public utilities. City council is the board of directors. Often the service director and council members know nothing whatever about the city light plant or about the light

The law will become effective January 1, 1934.

SMALL CITIES SLASHED FROM BUILDING PLAN

Fear Circleville's Post Office Project May Be Included in Cut

WORD IS AWAITED

Tobin Named Advisor for State's Loans

Fear that the post office construction project for this city might have been canceled from the list awaiting approval by the national budget bureau was expressed today when it was announced from Washington D. C. that "proposed buildings in small cities where the government can rent cheaper than build have been stricken from the list."

The Government now rents from Denny Pickens.

The building program costing $60,000,000 has been approved by the bureau as a part of the $3,-300,000,000 public works program. Construction in many larger cities is included.

With the public works administration organization nearing completion, formal announcement of additional public buildings is expected soon. Thus far only 14 buildings costing $6,900,000 have been announced.

PRESSURE IS USED

The administration is being subjected to strong congressional pressure for a liberalization of its public buildings program.

Appointment of ten regional public works advisers by President Roosevelt was to be followed soon by the naming of advisory committee of three for each state.

With the completion of this list the public works administration will be prepared to move speedily to grant loans to states, counties and cities for job-creation work. Under the act the government will give 30 per cent and loan 70 per cent of the cost of the project. A movement is on foot here now to obtain the necessary money to construct a playground. This would

TOKYO, July 26.—A plot to assassinate Charlie Chaplin, British-born film comedian in 1932 in an effort to thrust The United States and Japan into a war was told from the witness stand today by a nationalistic sub-lieutenant of the Japanese navy.

The informer was sub Lieutenant Koga who testified at the trial of 10 naval officers involved in the assassination of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai on May 15, 1932.

He said the extremists planned to bomb the official residence of the premier during a reception for Chaplin, who was a visitor in Japan. The reception was cancelled, however.

The witness declared it was the hope of the extremists that Chaplin's death would throw Japan and the United States into war, "which was needed to rehabilitate the —Japanese spirit."

The plotters were part of an organization formed to establish martial law in Japan. They planned to hurl a bomb among the nation's most famous statesmen in the Diet but members of the blood brotherhood persuaded them to abandon the plan.

Koga is one of the army and navy men on trial.

BOY'S INJURY BASIS OF SUIT

Forrest Smith Sues Harley Hines; Previous Suit Asked $20,000.

Forrest Smith, of Groveport R. F. D. 1, filed a suit for $10,000 damages in common pleas court, Wednesday, against Harley Hines of Ashville.

The suit is a result of a collision in which Smith's son, Marvin, aged 5, is alleged to have been struck by a truck driven by Hines on the Groveport-Ashville-pk, May 12.

Smith alleges in the petition that his son's injuries have necessitated $2,000 hospital expenses and claims the other $8,000 because he will lose the services of Marvin Smith during the period of his minority.

A suit claiming $20,000 damages was filed by Marvin Smith, through his father, Forrest Smith, two weeks ago.

Jones and Henderson, of Columbus, are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

All Ships To Be On Field For Inspection At 11 A. M., Aug. 2.

PROGRAM AT 12:30

Kiwanis Banquet To Open Fourth 'Air Week.'

Circleville will witness one of the largest displays of aircraft ever staged in central Ohio when the local chapter of the National Aeronautical association stages its fourth annual Air Day celebration.

The committee in charge of the program has arranged to have all ships on the field by 11 a. m. the day of the event. All ships will be arranged in order that they may be inspected by the public until 12:30 p. m. when the program is scheduled to start. Many new and unusual features are planned for this year's show and the air-minded crowds are promised many thrills during the afternoon and evening's activities.

Ample free parking space will be available. All roads leading to the airport are hard-surfaced, the field being located three miles northwest of the city on the Goose Pond-pk.

Pre-air day activities begin Monday evening at 6:30 when the Kiwanis club sponsors a banquet with Lieut. John Garver of the British Royal Air corps and the U. S. army air corps, as the principal speaker. Tickets may be obtained from R. G. Colville, air club secretary; Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, or Tom A. Renick of the Kiwanis club.

COLUMBUS, July 26.—Confidently declaring that "We can win in Ohio if we can get out the votes," S. P. McNaught, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, today called to order a meeting of dry leaders summoned here to draft an anti-repeal ticket for the Nov. 7 election.

A slate of 52 leading drys was to be chosen as candidates for the delegates-at-large to the state convention of prohibition which will be held under provisions of the Mosier law recently passed by the legislature and upheld by the supreme court.

JOHNSON TALK PLEDGES WORK BY LABOR DAY

Agreements Voluntarily Signed by Employers Throughout Nation

SPEAKS OVER RADIO

Minor Troubles Not to Interfere, Leader Says

WASHINGTON, July 26.—With 7,000 blanket code agreements voluntarily signed by employers, the nation was further cheered today on its drive to "happy days," following the radio address of Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, as he reiterated administration promises of 6,000,000 less unemployed by Labor day, the first Monday in September.

"Nothing will even hamper the president's industrial recovery program," Johnson assured his audience, as he likened the president's radio address to a war time appeal.

Johnson said:

"The simple reasoned, balanced and practical strategy and action that were laid before the country by the president came at an hour of trial as great and were as important to our people and as vital and effective as any of the great concept of our wars.

COUNTRY AROUSED

"This country understands all this. It approves all this. It is at last aroused. The president's recovery drive is under way. It is an irresistible march. The unemployed are already going back to work and Labor day has been set as the great objective.

"There are minor annoyances, but the only thing worth while mentioning is this great march out of the valley of despair, and begun last night—not here and there—not after weeks of hope deferred that maketh the heart sick, but under the banner of a great leader, in every village, and town and city in every part of the United States."

Johnson explained that the code "means that you will have to employ more people to do the same amount of work and that will increase your cost of doing business."

He continued:

"Of course there are ways to beat the rules of any game. We are just asking people in this

Ill-Fated Boat's Captain To Die

Soviet To Execute Charging Negligence in Drowning of 98 Persons.

YAROSLAV, U. S. S. R., July 26.—Convicted of criminal negligence in the drowning of 98 passengers when his Volga river excursion steamer capsized near here several weeks ago, Captain Nicolas Andreyev was sentenced to death today by the Soviet supreme court.

The captain's property was ordered confiscated as Soviet justice meted out the supreme penalty. His assistant, Leonid Kourapoff, was sent to prison for ten years.

Ten others on trial with the captain and his aide received minor sentences of from one to two years in prison. They were steamship company officials and trade union leaders.

The sinking of the steamer was attributed to overcrowding. 250 being allowed aboard while its capacity was only 125.

SLUGGERS TROUNCE CIRCLEVILLE OIL 9

Oliver Turns In Neat Work On Hill While Walisa's Hit Timely.

Walisa's Sluggers returned to the victory column in a big way, Tuesday evening, defeating the Circleville Oils by the lop-sided score of 9-1. Leroy Oliver, 'canned' by the Bulldogs, was on the firing line for the Sluggers and turned in a nice performance giving only seven hits. He walked six batters but always pulled out of trouble in time.

The Sluggers had a 'juggled' lineup on the field Thompson and Hickey being away at camp. Eddie Callahan, who proved a sensation in the box in the Walisa's early games, was at second base; Emerson Beatty, imported from Darbyville, was at shortstop; Ray Smith played third in place of Ike Brungs who quit, and Art Beatty, Darbysville's best hard-ball player, was in center field.

The Oil lineup was 'juggled' considerably when Carl Purcell, regular pitcher, failed to put in an appearance. Geib was pressed into duty on the mound, Pickens going to first base. Courtright caught and Robinson was in center field.

Geib was hit safely 11 times with four bases on ball being dished out. Nine Circleville Oil errors contributed to the lop-sided score.

DEFENSE TIGHT

The Walisa's treated in a rough manner last week by the Clark Bulldogs were tough, Tuesday evening, committing only one error, that a dropped fly ball by Butler in right field. He had to come in fast for the ball and narrowly escaped a collision with the second base thus making the chance a difficult one.

The Sluggers scored three runs in the first frame on two hits, a long fly and two errors, counted one in each the third, fifth and sixth and allied three more in the eighth on only one hit that a triple by Trimmer to center field. A walk and two errors doing the work.

The Oils only marker was counted in the sixth on Steele's base of balls and Pickens' triple, an ordinary single that Art Beatty tried to shoe-string and failed.

Trimmer and Ray Smith led the Walisa batters each with three hits. The former connected for a triple, double and single and the latter three singles. No member of the Oil team hit safely more than once.

SINCLAIR'S AND PANTHERS

Tonight the Sinclair Oils and the Panthers tangle in what should be an interesting game. Troy White has either Vlerebome or Dean White ready for mound duty while Bob Jones will toss them for the colored aggregation.

Max Friedman and Russ Miller umpired Tuesday evening's game.

HEISE HALTS INDIANS, 4-1

Doubleheader Scheduled This Afternoon; Cullop Clouts Home Run.

Weather permitting the Columbus Red Birds were ready to go after the Indianapolis Indians in a double-header this afternoon after winning the initial game of the series, 4-1, Tuesday afternoon.

Clarence Heise pitched Tuesday and gave six hits, fanning four and permitting two hits in only one inning when his effort for a shut-out was blasted.

The Birds conected safely on Bill Burwell 11 times, Anderson, Cullop, Heath, Whitehead and Heise each hitting safely twice. Cullop h't a home run and Whitehead a triple.

Bill Lee and Paul Dean are expected to go on the firing line this afternoon for the Birds with Thomas and Logan for Indianapolis. It is possible Dean may be saved for Thursday's night game in which event Jim Winford would work today.

Minneapolis lost to Kansas City dropping to third place while St. Paul climbed to second wining a pair from Milwaukee. Johnny Mareum won his sixteenth game for Louisville defeating Toledo, 9-2.

Hornsby Brown Boss

ST. LOUIS, July 26.— Rogers Hornsby, batting star of the National league and manager of three of its clubs during a stormy eighteen year career, today changed his field of operations to the American league by signing to manage the St. Louis Browns.

The dynamic "Rajah" has been signed to take over the managership for the remainder of the 1933 season and his contract calls for him to lead the local American league club also in 1934 and 1935, President Phil Fall of the Browns announced. The financial terms of the contract were not made public.

The deal which has been hanging fire for several days was consummated this morning after the waiver period expired with no National league club claiming Hornsby's services.

MIAMI'S GRID ELEVEN AGAIN SHOULD TAKE BUCKEYE CROWN

Coach Frank Wilton Has Veterans in Both Line and Backfield Positions; Stewart and Emerick Return to Play Tackle; Both Outstanding Conference Stars.

OXFORD, July 26.—With fourteen lettermen back of whom two received All- American honorable mention in 1932 Coach Frank Wilton's pigskin aggregation seems to have a bright prospect for a repeat on their Buckeye conference championship of last year. Moreover, he will not have the problem of changing over a Zuppke-own variety of the Warner System. With the foundation laid down last year, he can now devote his time to the finer details, and the 1933 Redskin season should be one of new and tricky plays even more of a treat for cash customers than last year's.

While the coach, in his characteristically cautious way, won't admit that prospects are good, it is perhaps significant that the university is going ahead to add some 2,400 seats to the stadium accommodations before the fall season opens.

Oliver Savatsky, Cleveland, and Warren Ott, Massillon, are the lettermen candidates for the end position. Ott was placed on the All-Buckeye team last season.

STEWART, EMERICK BACK

The tackle positions will be well fortified by William Stewart, Perry, and Robert Emerick, Hamilton. Stewart received All-American honorable mention in 1932.

Three lettermen will vie for the guard position. They are Fred Rentz, Lima; Ned Brooks, Mansfield; and Clayton Carmean, Kenton.

Center candidates are Angelo DeCesare, Providence, R. I., and Jack Mutchler, Chillicothe. DeCesare is a letterman from last year, while Mutchler earned his numerals last season on the Frosh squad.

Pat Roudebush, Oxford, quarterback, will match wits with Charles Holmsch, Dayton sophmore, for the honor of leading the Wiltonian outfit into battle.

There is quite an array of first class backs to choose from. Lettermen are Leonard Fertig, Independence, who received All-American honorable mention last fall; Lee Cormany, Akron; Charles Robanson, Toledo; Stan Lewis, Hamilton; and Richard Meyer, Napoleon. The first two are candidates for the fullback position, and the last three for the halfback positions. The fullbacks will receive some stiff competition from Sam Gilliland, sophomore from Cincinnati; while Larry Smith, Columbus, and Tom Oswald, Cleveland, from last year, will make the halfback step.

PIRATES GAIN WINNING PAIR

Drub Chicago Cubs Twice; Both Games Fast; Washington Advances.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Pittsburgh Pirates, who failed to get better than an ever brake in a six-game series with the New York Giants and then dropped a double-header to the lowly Cincinnati Reds, were back in the thick of the National league race today thanks to two victories over the second-place Cubs yesterday, 4 to 3 and 4 to 1.

The double victory put Pittsburg only a game and a half behind the Bruins, who in turn trail the pace-setting Giants by three games.

Outfielder Fred Lindstrom was the batting star. He collected five bingles and stretched his consecutive hitting streak to 22 games.

Lloyd (Little Poison) Waner, refreshed by a spell on the bench, won the first game with a pinch single off Guy Bush. Steve Swetonic was the winning hurler.

The night cap was a pitching duel between Hal Smith and Bud Tinning. The Bucs sewed up the game in the second inning when Demaree messed up Lindstrom's single.

Although he was on the sidelines with a leg injury, Frank Frisch got off to a flying start as manager of the Cardinals when the Red Birds beat Cincinnati, 3 to 1, behind Jess Haines' steady pitching. The Cards tied the Braves for fourth place.

Washington made it three straight over the Athletics, 5 to 1, and increased their lead over the idle Yankees to two games. Earl Whitehill stopped the Mackmen cold while Mahaffey cooked his own goose by walking five batters in the first inning. Rain held the game to five innings.

The Roosevelt Administration is quietly putting the skids under George L. Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. The inside word is that his retirement soon will come to pass.

Between Harrison and the liberal Roosevelt group there has long been a bitter secret feud. Senator Carter Glass joined in the fight—and on the Roosevelt side.

Two incidents finally aroused the Administration against him. The first was his recent collaboration with the European gold bloc at the London Economic Conference in the attempt to put over a dollar stabilization scheme.

The second was his refusal to fall in with the Administration's policy to sell government issues directly to the Federal Reserve banks. Harrison insisted that the Treasury offer its paper via the bankers. This recalcitrance was the last straw.

DRAMA PLANNED AT EVANGELISTIC MEET

Another splendid service was held last night at Memorial Hall as part of the evangelistic crusade which is going on there under auspices of the local Church of Christ, R. Tibbs Maxey minister.

A splendid group of young people with their pastor, Chester Williamson from Waynesville, were present and Rev. Williamson led in prayer.

The sermon on "Heart Felt Religion" was doctrinal from beginning to end and set for the teaching of both the Old and New Testaments on the subject.

Tonight another Religious Drama will be presented, under the title "Swift Feet." It is said to be one of the best and most impressive dramas that will be presented during the present series of services. The cast for the drama tonight includes: Imogene Caudil, Helen Boring, Ruth Selby, Naomi Caudil, Louise Ward, Margaret Long, John Maxey, Owen M. Walker and Mrs. Owen M. Walker.

Services begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

More Fishery Products

BOSTON—Landings of fishery products at Boston, Gloucester, Mass., and Portland, Maine, during May amounted to 27,305,368 pounds valued at $446,979 compared with 22,848,247 pounds valued at $400,819 in the corresponding month of 1932. The increase in total landings was due chiefly to larger catches of cod, pollock, cusk, haddock and flounders.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resen' a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

SLUGGERS TROUNCE CIRCLEVILLE OIL 9

Oliver Turns In Neat Work On Hill While Walisa's Hit Timely.

Walisa's Sluggers returned to the victory column in a big way, Tuesday evening, defeating the Circleville Oils by the lop-sided score of 9-1. Leroy Oliver, 'canned' by the Bulldogs, was on the firing line for the Sluggers and turned in a nice performance giving only seven hits. He walked six batters but always pulled out of trouble in time.

The Sluggers had a 'juggled' lineup on the field Thompson and Hickey being away at camp. Eddie Callahan, who proved a sensation in the box in the Walisa's early games, was at second base; Emerson Beatty, imported from Darbyville, was at shortstop; Ray Smith played third in place of Ike Brungs who quit, and Art Beatty, Darbysville's best hard-ball player, was in center field.

The Oil lineup was 'juggled' considerably when Carl Purcell, regular pitcher, failed to put in an appearance. Geib was pressed into duty on the mound, Pickens going to first base. Courtright caught and Robinson was in center field.

Geib was hit safely 11 times with four bases on ball being dished out. Nine Circleville Oil errors contributed to the lop-sided score.

DEFENSE TIGHT

The Walisa's treated in a rough manner last week by the Clark Bulldogs were tough, Tuesday evening, committing only one error, that a dropped fly ball by Butler in right field. He had to come in fast for the ball and narrowly escaped a collision with the second base thus making the chance a difficult one.

The Sluggers scored three runs in the first frame on two hits, a long fly and two errors, counted one in each the third, fifth and sixth and allied three more in the eighth on only one hit that a triple by Trimmer to center field. A walk and two errors doing the work.

The Oils only marker was counted in the sixth on Steele's base of balls and Pickens' triple, an ordinary single that Art Beatty tried to shoe-string and failed.

Trimmer and Ray Smith led the Walisa batters each with three hits. The former connected for a triple, double and single and the latter three singles. No member of the Oil team hit safely more than once.

SINCLAIR'S AND PANTHERS

Tonight the Sinclair Oils and the Panthers tangle in what should be an interesting game. Troy White has either Vlerebome or Dean White ready for mound duty while Bob Jones will toss them for the colored aggregation.

Max Friedman and Russ Miller umpired Tuesday evening's game.

Hornsby Brown Boss

ST. LOUIS, July 26.— Rogers Hornsby, batting star of the National league and manager of three of its clubs during a stormy eighteen year career, today changed his field of operations to the American league by signing to manage the St. Louis Browns.

The dynamic "Rajah" has been signed to take over the managership for the remainder of the 1933 season and his contract calls for him to lead the local American league club also in 1934 and 1935, President Phil Fall of the Browns announced. The financial terms of the contract were not made public.

The deal which has been hanging fire for several days was consummated this morning after the waiver period expired with no National league club claiming Hornsby's services.

MIAMI'S GRID ELEVEN AGAIN SHOULD TAKE BUCKEYE CROWN

Coach Frank Wilton Has Veterans in Both Line and Backfield Positions; Stewart and Emerick Return to Play Tackle; Both Outstanding Conference Stars.

OXFORD, July 26.—With fourteen lettermen back—of whom two received All- American honorable mention in 1932—Coach Frank Wilton's pigskin aggregation seems to have a bright prospect for a repeat on their Buckeye conference championship of last year. Moreover, he will not have the problem of changing over a Zuppke-own variety of the Warner System. With the foundation laid down last year, he can now devote his time to the finer details, and the 1933 Redskin season should be one of new and tricky plays—even more of a treat for cash customers than last year's.

While the coach, in his characteristically cautious way, won't admit that prospects are good, it is perhaps significant that the university is going ahead to add some 2,400 seats to the stadium accommodations before the fall season opens.

Oliver Savatsky, Cleveland, and Warren Ott, Massillon, are the lettermen candidates for the end position. Ott was placed on the All-Buckeye team last season.

STEWART, EMERICK BACK

The tackle positions will be well fortified by William Stewart, Perry, and Robert Emerick, Hamilton. Stewart received All-American honorable mention in 1932.

Three lettermen will vie for the guard position. They are Fred Rentz, Lima; Ned Brooks, Mansfield; and Clayton Carmean, Kenton.

Center candidates are Angelo DeCesare, Providence, R. I., and Jack Mutchler, Chillicothe. DeCesare is a letterman from last year, while Mutchler earned his numerals last season on the Frosh squad.

Pat Roudebush, Oxford, quarterback, will match wits with Charles Holmsch, Dayton sophmore, for the honor of leading the Wiltonian outfit into battle.

There is quite an array of first class backs to choose from. Lettermen are Leonard Fertig, Independence, who received All-American honorable mention last fall; Lee Cormany, Akron; Charles Robanson, Toledo; Stan Lewis, Hamilton; and Richard Meyer, Napoleon. The first two are candidates for the fullback position, and the last three for the halfback positions. The fullbacks will receive some stiff competition from Sam Gilliland, sophomore from Cincinnati; while Larry Smith, Columbus, and Tom Oswald, Cleveland, from last year, will make the halfback step.

PIRATES GAIN WINNING PAIR

Drub Chicago Cubs Twice; Both Games Fast; Washington Advances.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Pittsburgh Pirates, who failed to get better than an even brake in a six-game series with the New York Giants and then dropped a double-header to the lowly Cincinnati Reds, were back in the thick of the National league race today thanks to two victories over the second-place Cubs yesterday, 4 to 3 and 4 to 1.

The double victory put Pittsburg only a game and a half behind the Bruins, who in turn trail the pace-setting Giants by three games.

Outfielder Fred Lindstrom was the batting star. He collected five bingles and stretched his consecutive hitting streak to 22 games.

Lloyd (Little Poison) Waner, refreshed by a spell on the bench, won the first game with a pinch single off Guy Bush. Steve Swetonic was the winning hurler.

The night cap was a pitching duel between Hal Smith and Bud Tinning. The Bucs sewed up the game in the second inning when Demaree messed up Lindstrom's single.

Although he was on the sidelines with a leg injury, Frank Frisch got off to a flying start as manager of the Cardinals when the Red Birds beat Cincinnati, 3 to 1, behind Jess Haines' steady pitching. The Cards tied the Braves for fourth place.

Washington made it three straight over the Athletics, 5 to 1, and increased their lead over the idle Yankees to two games. Earl Whitehill stopped the Mackmen cold while Mahaffey cooked his own goose by walking five batters in the first inning. Rain held the game to five innings.

HEISE HALTS INDIANS, 4-1

Doubleheader Scheduled This Afternoon; Cullop Clouts Home Run.

Weather permitting the Columbus Red Birds were ready to go after the Indianapolis Indians in a double-header this afternoon after winning the initial game of the series, 4-1, Tuesday afternoon.

Clarence Heise pitched Tuesday and gave six hits, fanning four and permitting two hits in only one inning when his effort for a shut-out was blasted.

The Birds conected safely on Bill Burwell 11 times, Anderson, Cullop, Heath, Whitehead and Heise each hitting safely twice. Cullop hit a home run and Whitehead a triple.

Bill Lee and Paul Dean are expected to go on the firing line this afternoon for the Birds with Thomas and Logan for Indianapolis. It is possible Dean may be saved for Thursday's night game in which event Jim Winford would work today.

Minneapolis lost to Kansas City dropping to third place while St. Paul climbed to second wining a pair from Milwaukee. Johnny Marcum won his sixteenth game for Louisville defeating Toledo, 9-2.

Phosphate fertilizers, which hasten maturity, are particularly beneficial on corn in years when frost threatens to catch the crop before it reaches maturity.

The Roosevelt Administration is quietly putting the skids under George L. Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. The inside word is that his retirement soon will come to pass.

Between Harrison and the liberal Roosevelt group there has long been a bitter secret feud. Senator Carter Glass joined in the fight—and on the Roosevelt side.

Two incidents finally aroused the Administration against him. The first was his recent collaboration with the European gold bloc at the London Economic Conference in the attempt to put over a dollar stabilization scheme.

The second was his refusal to fall in with the Administration's policy to sell government issues directly to the Federal Reserve banks. Harrison insisted that the Treasury offer its paper via the bankers. This recalcitrance was the last straw.

DRAMA PLANNED AT EVANGELISTIC MEET

Another splendid service was held last night at Memorial Hall as part of the evangelistic crusade which is going on there under auspices of the local Church of Christ, R. Tibbs Maxey minister.

A splendid group of young people with their pastor, Chester Williamson from Waynesville, were present and Rev. Williamson led in prayer.

The sermon on "Heart Felt Religion" was doctrinal from beginning to end and set for the teaching of both the Old and New Testaments on the subject.

Tonight another Religious Drama will be presented, under the title "Swift Feet." It is said to be one of the best and most impressive dramas that will be presented during the present series of services. The cast for the drama tonight includes: Imogene Caudil, Helen Boring, Ruth Selby, Naomi Caudil, Louise Ward, Margaret Long, John Maxey, Owen M. Walker and Mrs. Owen M. Walker.

Services begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Cat, Sparrow Friends

SAN FRANCISCO—Mickey, a Persian cat owned by Mrs. Edward Mulligan, has nothing but vegetarian instincts when around Billy, an English sparrow. They have become fast friends in the three weeks since the sparrow, which had been injured, joined the household. The sparrow often perches on the cat's head, the owner said.

More Fishery Products

BOSTON—Landings of fishery products at Boston, Gloucester, Mass., and Portland, Maine, during May amounted to 27,305,368 pounds valued at $446,979 compared with 22,848,247 pounds valued at $400,819 in the corresponding month of 1932. The increase in total landings was due chiefly to larger catches of cod, pollock, cusk, haddock and flounders.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Farm Executive Fights Petition

While petitions were being put into circulation here today by H. M. Crites and Samuel Lindsay proposing a 10-mill limitation amendment to the state constitution, the Ohio Farm bureau and the Ohio State grange called upon the state to defeat the proposal to reduce the tax limitation declaring "the state is headed straight toward catastrophe if it is approved."

C. A. Dyer, legislative agent for the two farm organizations, declared in a formal statement that the proposed reduction is too severe, and added that if passed it would lead to "drastic laws for the collection of delinquent taxes, thereby taking away from their owners thousands of their homes and farms."

URGES WITHDRAWAL

Dyer urges all persons who signed "without understanding the possible disastrous results" to have their names withdrawn.

Municipalities, counties, townships, park districts, libraries and other community functions would be entirely without operating funds if the 10-mill limitation is placed in the constitution, Dyer said.

Mr. Crites and Mr. Lindsay are acting for the Initiative Campaign committee which seeks 265,000 signatures prior to August 7 with the amendment to be voted upon at the November election.

Petitions are being circulated in every county in the state and such organizations as the Ohio Building and Loan associations, the Ohio Real Estate boards and other similar organizations are aiding in their circulation.

JOHNSON TALK

crisis in very general terms to rise above these cheap little ingenuities and join with the president to beat the depression.

PRICE VERSUS PURSE

"If we don't get purchasing power to the proper level and do it now, there isn't going to be any bigger business. There is going to be less business. Prices are way ahead of purses right now. Speculative price advances are the best way to kill the goose that lays the golden egg, and as most business men will agree, that it is a pretty sickly-looking goose right now.

"As this plan begins to go to work we are going to see some real business in this country. There is a starved demand here such as never before. Worn out automobiles, unpainted houses, shabby shoes and clothing, rickety furniture, threadbare rugs—I won't go through the whole list.

"All that is needed to start a flood of business is to take away the fear of unemployment and get a little money into the hands of people that need things and this is the way to do it.

"We can't do this job in an atmosphere of sniping.

"This jumping-the-gun was equally bad on both sides.

"The idea of the N. R. A. badge is to show people whom of the employers of this country are following the president in putting breadwinners back to work and which of them think it is good business to sell at a few cents lower price made possible by declining to help. If that is blackmail, so is putting a uniform on a soldier when he marches into a battle to defend his country. On that theory he should be in civilian clothes so that nobody could know he was not a deserter skulking away behind the lines."

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

OF course it ain't every lawyer that can get a guy off that is accused of speeding, but there is some lawyers that never lose a real criminal case. That is, if the guy is a real criminal and has got real dough, there's lawyers that can get him free, because they have always done it.

Well, there was a colored fellow down in Georgia that was arrested for a strange crime. Seems he had taken some chickens that didn't belong to him, and was caught in the act. Mose come into court looking like he had been stealing chickens, and the judge says, "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I dunno," says Mose.

"Come now, no monkeyshines. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Well, Jedge," says Mose, "I reckon this here trial is going to tell me about that. I says I'm guilty, because I stole the chickens, but this here white lawyer I got says I'm not guilty, and he's an awful smart man. I'm jes waitin' to see what you says about it, Jedge, because this here white lawyer bet me half a fried chicken that he's goin' to get me off an' prove I'm not guilty."

METHODIST MEN'S CLUB HAS OUTING

59 Gather at Harley Colwell's Farm; Horse-shoes, Ball Game Enjoyed.

Fifty nine men of the Methodist Men's Club at the country home of H. B. Colwell in Pickaway-twp, with their appetites whetted by horseshoe and recreation ball games, thoroughly enjoyed a picnic repast of baked ham with all the trimmings Tuesday evening. Thirty pounds of ham, eight pounds of cheese, six quarts of pickles, tomatoes, onions, several gallons of iced tea and coffee, and two boxes of cakes made up the repast, which rapidly disappeared from sight as soon as the committee announced the chow call. Homer Fullen was chairman of the food committee and planned the splendid dinner. He was assisted by H. B. Colwell, Lyman Bell, Dwight Steele, and L. E. Seitz.

After the dinner the president, Dr. G. D. Phillips, presided over a brief meeting at which time plans were formulated for the August meeting which will be held at the Buckeye Lake home of E. H. Rausenberger. This meeting promises to be an unusual one, and a good attendance is anticipated. The meetings are held the last Tuesday evening of each month. All men are welcome. There are no dues. Simply attend and pay your quarter for the dinner. Plan now to attend the next one. H. W. Plum is chairman of the attendance committee. Make your reservations with him anytime before the date of the meeting. You do not have to be a Methodist. The men are always pleased to have you in their midst regardless of church affiliation. The chief purpose of these meetings is pleasure and the promotion of a greater social solidarity among those present. You will enjoy yourself every time you come.

SETTLE PREPARES FOR 'STRATO' HOP

Weather To Determine Exact Time; Piccard To Remain As Ground Pilot.

CHICAGO, July 26.—Lieut. Commander T. G. W. Settle was ready today for a takeoff before midnight on the Piccard-Compton balloon flight into the stratosphere to study the cosmic ray.

Weather conditions will determine the exact hour when the huge balloon will be cast loose at Soldier field. After conferring with government weather forecasters, Commander Settle decided that if the high pressure area now approaching does not change direction the flight will begin by midnight.

Commander Settle, veteran balloonist and aerial navigator of the United States navy, will be alone in the steel drum at the takeoff. Dr. Jean Piccard, who executed the first stratosphere flight, will direct the flight as "ground pilot."

CITY LIGHT PLANTS

and power business. Yet these men must pass final judgment on broad matters of policy that are vital to the city plant. And after they are done, if a big step is being undertaken, some irate citizen, who doesn't know the difference between the light plant turbines and the waterworks pumps, can hire himself a lawyer and go into court with an injunction suit that will at least cause delay in the project.

MUST CHANGE ORDINANCES

The officers and directors of a private company can meet and make a quick decision because they know all about the business and there is no appeal from their judgment. On the other hand they can rectify a mistake by a similar quick meeting or an order, while city council must meet and repeal or change a lot of ordinances to make a similar change in policy or plan.

"My position is out of politics; as superintendent of utilities I am under civil service," said one highly successful Ohio municipal utility manager.

But his city council could meet tonight and abolish his office. He will be secure in his job only so long as he holds the confidence of council and the people of his city, or only so long as he remains a good politician.

Municipal plants never manufactured as high as 10 per cent of the electricial energy output of the nation. The total municipal output in the United States was 7.82 per cent in 1902 and by 1926 had dropped to 4.33 per cent. In the interim 1,412 cities and towns had quit operation of their municipal plants.

Of these towns that quit most were small communities where they had originally entered the field because it was the only way to get service. Later when the power companies began expanding and put in a network of power lines, most of these towns were glad to sell, getting rid of a worry and getting better service at the same time.

TOOK JACKSON PLANT

The Southern Ohio Electric Co. in 1930 took over Jackson, population 5,922 at the last census, but the city retained its distribution system for everything under 25 horsepower. It buys power from the Southern Ohio but is still paying on a bond issue for its own unused plant.

The predecessors to Southern Ohio took over the Athens plant in 1914 and one councilman, once an ardent municipal plant advocate, wrote "It is my opinion that any city that has an opportunity to get central power would have to make a very poor contract indeed if it did not better its condition over municipal ownership."

Other smaller municipal plants taken over in Southern Ohio territory include Hamden, Waverly, Piketon, South Webster, Black Fork and Peebles. The company also furnishes power at Glouster for municipal distribution.

Of the 42 cities and towns in Ohio operating electric light plants and producing and distributing their own energy, only 28 depend entirely on the municipal plants. They are:

Bellefontaine, Arcanum, Arlington, Bainbridge, Bluffton, Caldwell, Celina, Clyde, East Palestine, Galion, Greenfield, Lebanon, Martin's Ferry, Miamisburg, Minerva, Montpelier, Napoleon, Paulding, Plain City, Sabina, Spencerville, Tippecanoe City, Troy, Versailles, Wellington, Wellston, and Woodsfield.

Cleveland has a light plant furnishing only a part of the city, as has Columbus, where the plant is operated out of the city's general taxation fund, having been started originally for street lighting purposes only. Newark, O., maintains a city plant for street lighting only.

The following have city plants that presumably have most of the domestic business as well as the street lighting, but there are central power stations of privately owned companies supplying industrial, commercial and some domestic service: Berea, Dover, Hamilton, Nelsonville, Norwalk, Orrville, Painesville, St. Bernard, St. Marys, Shelby, Willard.

QUIT MUNICIPAL PLANTS

Ohio cities that have quit their municipal plants include Ashtabula, population 25,066, sold to Cleveland Electric Illiminating Co. in 1928; Lakewood, population 70,000, sold to Cleveland Illiminating; Lima, population 47,700, sold to Ohio Power in 1923; Norwood, population 30,800, sold to Union Gas & Electric of Cincinnati in 1920; Barberton, population 23,934.

Holgate, O., built a plant in 1900 for $35,000 and sold in 1917 for $1,000.

Other large Ohio towns that have sold their light plants, exclusive of those already enumerated in Southern Ohio Electric Co. territory include:

Xenia, population 9,110; Wilmington, 5,037; London, 4,080; Conneaut, population 9,343; Marietta, population 14,285.

Other smaller towns that have sold include:

Albany, Ansonia, Attica, Batavia, Bell Center, Beverly, Bexley, Bloomville, Buckland, Burbank, Butler, Caledonia, Casstown, Cecil, Centerburg, Chardon, Clarksburg, Convoy, Creston, Cridersville, DeGraff, Fort Recovery.

Frankfort, Freeport, Granville, Germantown, Hebron, Jefferson, Johnstown, Latty, Loudonville, Manchester, McArthur, Martinsville, Mayfield, Milford Center, Mt. Sterling, New London.

Northfield, Olmstead Falls, Osborn, Oxford, Powell, Rocky River, Rudolph, Salem, Salineville, Scott, Sherwood, St. Paris, Sunbury, Waynesville, West Mansfield, Willshire, Wren.

The following Ohio towns have abandoned or sold their generating plants but retained their distribution systems, buying from private companies:

Amelia, Amherst, Anna, Arcadia, Beach City, Bethal, Blanchester, Bloomdale, Bradner, Brewster, Bryan, Carey, Clyde, Columbiana, Cuyahoga Falls, Cygnet, Eldorado, Elmore, Fayetteville.

Genoa, Georgetown, Grafton, Glouster, Greenwich, Hudson, Hiram, Hubbard, Huron, Jackson, Jackson Center, Jerry City, Lagrange, Lakeview, Leroy, Liberty Center, Lowellville, Lucas, Marshallville, Milan.

Minster, Monroeville, Mt. Oral, New Bremen, New Concord, New Knoxville, New Richmond, Niles, Oak Harbor, Ohio City, Pemberville, Pioneer, Plymouth, Reading, Republic, Ripley, Russelville, Seville, Shiloh, South Vienna, St. Clairsville, Stryker, Sycamore, Tontongany, Wadsworth, Wapakoneta, Waynesfield, Westerville, Wharton, Willoughby, Yellow Springs.

The next article in this series will tell about Bellefontaine, the best example of municipal ownership in Ohio in a town comparable in size, situation and character with Circleville.

TOUHY BOND HIGH

MILWAUKEE, July 26.—Charged with the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., millionaire St. Paul brewer, Roger Touhy and three hoodlum companions were being held in the county jail here today, unable to post $50,000 bond each.

The jail was heavily guarded to prevent their escape.

Farm Executive Fights Petition

While petitions were being put into circulation here today by H. M. Crites and Samuel Lindsay proposing a 10-mill limitation amendment to the state constitution, the Ohio Farm bureau and the Ohio State grange called upon the state to defeat the proposal to reduce the tax limitation declaring "the state is headed straight toward catastrophe if it is approved."

C. A. Dyer, legislative agent for the two farm organizations, declared in a formal statement that the proposed reduction is too severe, and added that if passed it would lead to "drastic laws for the collection of delinquent taxes, thereby taking away from their owners thousands of their homes and farms."

URGES WITHDRAWAL

Dyer urges all persons who signed "without understanding the possible disastrous results" to have their names withdrawn.

Municipalities, counties, townships, park districts, libraries and other community functions would be entirely without operating funds if the 10-mill limitation is placed in the constitution, Dyer said.

Mr. Crites and Mr. Lindsay are acting for the Initiative Campaign committee which seeks 265,000 signatures prior to August 7 with the amendment to be voted upon at the November election.

Petitions are being circulated in every county in the state and such organizations as the Ohio Building and Loan associations, the Ohio Real Estate boards and other similar organizations are aiding in their circulation.

JOHNSON TALK

crisis in very general terms to rise above these cheap little ingenuities and join with the president to beat the depression.

PRICE VERSUS PURSE

"If we don't get purchasing power to the proper level and do it now, there isn't going to be any bigger business. There is going to be less business. Prices are way ahead of purses right now. Speculative price advances are the best way to kill the goose that lays the golden egg, and as most business men will agree, that it is a pretty sickly-looking goose right now.

"As this plan begins to go to work we are going to see some real business in this country. There is a starved demand here such as never before. Worn out automobiles, unpainted houses, shabby shoes and clothing, rickety furniture, threadbare rugs—I won't go through the whole list.

"All that is needed to start a flood of business is to take away the fear of unemployment and get a little money into the hands of people that need things and this is the way to do it.

"We can't do this job in an atmosphere of sniping.

"This jumping-the-gun was equally bad on both sides.

"The idea of the N. R. A. badge is to show people whom of the employers of this country are following the president in putting breadwinners back to work and which of them think it is good business to sell at a few cents lower price made possible by declining to help. If that is blackmail, so is putting a uniform on a soldier when he marches into a battle to defend his country. On that theory he should be in civilian clothes so that nobody could know he was not a deserter skulking away behind the lines."

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

OF course it ain't every lawyer that can get a guy off that is accused of speeding, but there is some lawyers that never lose a real criminal case. That is, if the guy is a real criminal and has got real dough, there's lawyers that can get him free, because they have always done it.

Well, there was a colored fellow down in Georgia that was arrested for a strange crime. Seems he had taken some chickens that didn't belong to him, and was caught in the act. Mose come into court looking like he had been stealing chickens, and the judge says, "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I dunno," says Mose.

"Come now, no monkeyshines. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Well, Jedge," says Mose, "I reckon this here trial is going to tell me about that. I says I'm guilty, because I stole the chickens, but this here white lawyer I got says I'm not guilty, and he's an awful smart man. I'm jes waitin' to see what you says about it, Jedge, because this here white lawyer bet me half a fried chicken that he's goin' to get me off an' prove I'm not guilty."

METHODIST MEN'S CLUB HAS OUTING

Fifty nine men of the Methodist Men's Club at the country home of H. B. Colwell in Pickaway-twp, with their appetites whetted by horseshoe and recreation ball games, thoroughly enjoyed a picnic repast of baked ham with all the trimmings Tuesday evening. Thirty pounds of ham, eight pounds of cheese, six quarts of pickles, tomatoes, onions, several gallons of iced tea and coffee, and two boxes of cakes made up the repast, which rapidly disappeared from sight as soon as the committee announced the chow call. Homer Fullen was chairman of the food committee and planned the splendid dinner. He was assisted by H. B. Colwell, Lyman Bell, Dwight Steele, and L. E. Seitz.

After the dinner the president, Dr. G. D. Phillips, presided over a brief meeting at which time plans were formulated for the August meeting which will be held at the Buckeye Lake home of E. H. Rausenberger. This meeting promises to be an unusual one, and a good attendance is anticipated. The meetings are held the last Tuesday evening of each month. All men are welcome. There are no dues. Simply attend and pay your quarter for the dinner. Plan now to attend the next one. H. W. Plum is chairman of the attendance committee. Make your reservations with him anytime before the date of the meeting. You do not have to be a Methodist. The men are always pleased to have you in their midst regardless of church affiliation. The chief purpose of these meetings is pleasure and the promotion of a greater social solidarity among those present. You will enjoy yourself every time you come.

SETTLE PREPARES FOR 'STRATO' HOP

Weather To Determine Exact Time; Piccard To Remain As Ground Pilot.

CHICAGO, July 26.—Lieut. Commander T. G. W. Settle was ready today for a takeoff before midnight on the Piccard-Compton balloon flight into the stratosphere to study the cosmic ray.

Weather conditions will determine the exact hour when the huge balloon will be cast loose at Soldier field. After conferring with government weather forecasters, Commander Settle decided that if the high pressure area now approaching does not change direction the flight will begin by midnight.

Commander Settle, veteran balloonist and aerial navigator of the United States navy, will be alone in the steel drum at the takeoff. Dr. Jean Piccard, who executed the first stratosphere flight, will direct the flight as "ground pilot."

and power business. Yet these men must pass final judgment on broad matters of policy that are vital to the city plant. And after they are done, if a big step is being undertaken, some irate citizen, who doesn't know the difference between the light plant turbines and the waterworks pumps, can hire himself a lawyer and go into court with an injunction suit that will at least cause delay in the project.

MUST CHANGE ORDINANCES

The officers and directors of a private company can meet and make a quick decision because they know all about the business and there is no appeal from their judgment. On the other hand they can rectify a mistake by a similar quick meeting or an order, while city council must meet and repeal or change a lot of ordinances to make a similar change in policy or plan.

"My position is out of politics; as superintendent of utilities I am under civil service," said one highly successful Ohio municipal utility manager.

But his city council could meet tonight and abolish his office. He will be secure in his job only so long as he holds the confidence of council and the people of his city, or only so long as he remains a good politician.

The Market Crash

THE swift tumble taken by the stock market ought to be a warning to the public that Wall Street offers no safe and quick way to fortune.

For about three months there had been a steady rise in stock prices, broken by occasional brief setback. Most of these dips were slight and were overcome almost immediately.

One result of the steady rise was to draw the public into the whirl of speculation. The professionals knew when to take their profits in one stock or in one class of stocks and to switch to another. The wet parade of states in ratifying the repeal amendment directed attention to liquor issues. A mad scramble for these stocks soon was on, not because the earnings of distilling companies showed any substantial increase but on the prospect that prohibition would be repealed and open the way to larger profits. This represented purely gambling.

There are some industrial concerns which are profiting by the business revival and whose stocks filled many of the requirements of good investments. When the public is seized with the fever of speculation, however, little regard is paid by the uninformed to a company's earnings or prospects. Many grab almost blindly whatever stock is within easy reach of their financial means. Even good stocks soon are pushed far beyond safe bounds.

The inevitable result of such a condition is a crash, either of minor or major proportions. Buyers with slim margins behind their purchases are wiped out.

Experience seems to be no teacher when it comes to stock speculation. The speculator may lose everything he has, but as soon as he can get a new stake, back into the market he goes.

There appears to be no sound remedy for the condition, other than to let nature take its course.

Spreading Good Will

THE good-will mission of the Italian air squadron led by General Balbo was performed in a manner that must have been highly pleasing to Rome.

The bearded, youthful leader established with the American public an immediate popularity. The other members of his group who helped to bring the fleet of 24 planes safely across the Atlantic also won the admiration and esteem of Americans.

It is not solely because of their courage and skill that Americans extended them such a warm welcome. Their personality, individually and collectively, has in it a quality of friendliness that invites a reciprocal feeling.

The men represented the pick of Italy's flying service. They demonstrated on the long flight from Rome to Chicago that they are experts in their line. Then at the end of the journey, they proved that they are more than flyers. They are accomplished good-will diplomats.

The manner of their reception by the public here is of no less satisfaction to Americans generally than it is to Italians in their native country. The visit will serve to strengthen the friendly relations between the governments of the two countries as well as between the two peoples. This aspect of the flight is an important one.

Premier Mussolini is to be congratulated upon his selection of such a group as his good-will representatives. No less deserving is General Balbo and his men for the way they performed their mission.

Still Trying to Catch Up

"MARY FAITH"
by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Mary Faith said to herself that it wouldn't break her heart if Claire never did come home. It would suit her down to the ground if she never had to see Claire's dazzling smile and restless blue eyes again. All summer she had been dreading Claire's return and the return of all the things that Claire stood for. The card games and the cocktails and the promiscuous kissing that went on in the flat above Haltnorth Park —"the unclean antics of grown-up children," as a brilliant playwright had called such entertainments.

Two nights later Kim telephoned at five o'clock to say that he wouldn't be home for dinner. Some men he knew had asked him to go with them to a clam bake at the Shore Club, he explained.

"No women present," he added, with a laugh.

"In that case, your jealous wife will let you go," Mary Faith answered him cheerfully. "Have a good time, Kim."

She was glad that he was going to the Shore Club. It was fine for a man to spend an evening with other men occasionally—to get their viewpoint on things.

And the Shore Club. It meant something for a man to be invited there. It was a solid sort of institution, where the oldest and best families in the city played golf and danced and gave dinner-parties.

So Mary Faith, who had no social ambitions of her own, was filled with a sense of pride in Kim as she turned away from the telephone that afternoon. He was beginning to know the right sort of people, to go to the right sort of places, to be liked and respected by his business friends.

It was a beautiful afternoon, sunshiny and breezy. Mary Faith put the baby into his perambulator and started off for a walk through the park. The baby, pink and bright eyed from his afternoon nap, sat up against the pillows of his little cart and played with a rubber rabbit that Jean Bartlett had brought him.

It was cool and green under the trees. Mary Faith spread a blanket for him near her favorite bench and sat watching him in great contentment while she darned Kim's socks. By the time she had finished them and put them into her mending bag, it was six o'clock and the factory whistles were blowing in the distance.

"Time to start home," she said to the baby. "Time to go home and find the baby's bottle."

Then she decided all at once that she wouldn't go home for dinner. She'd go back to the flat for the bottle and then take the baby to Mrs. Puckett's. It would be nice to show him to her friends.

Mr. McClintock was sitting on the front steps, reading the evening paper, when she came within sight of the old red brick building with its shutters and its bay trees and its starched white curtains. Mrs. Puckett was standing in the doorway behind him and she came hurrying down the steps when she saw Mary Faith. She took the baby out of the perambulator, exclaiming over his adorable littleness and his amazing beauty.

"Look at those eyelashes, Mary Faith! If they ain't yours to a T!" she cried. "And look at his little hands and his feet—his little velvet feet!"

She horrified Mary Faith by giving him a crust of bread to chew on when they all went in to dinner,

She served their simple meals as beautifully as a trained waitress could have served them.

"Pshaw, he can't eat it, Mary Faith. He hasn't any teeth," she said. And when Mary Faith wouldn't let him have it, she went upstairs and came back with an old-fashioned ivory teething ring.

"There!" she said to him. "That's all your smart young mother will let you have. But your Aunt Puckett is going to make you a little muslin bag full of raisins when you really begin to cut your teeth."

"I brought up my two little sisters after my mother died," she said to Mary Faith, heaping her plate with baked ham and potato salad and fresh tomatoes in aspic jelly. "There ain't much that I don't know about raising babies. . . . Just remember that, in case you ever need any help with this precious mite!"

Mary Faith smiled at her happily. She would never need help with the baby. She was sure of that, she told herself. And not until long afterward did she realize that she had tucked Mrs. Puckett's words into some pigeonhole of her mind that night, to be taken out later and remembered with relief and gratitude.

It was twilight when she started home, and the baby was asleep on his embroidered pillows. By the time she reached the drug store near her own corner, a familiar figure emerged from the doorway—Kim! He stood there for a moment, and then vanished around the corner. But when she reached the corner, he was not in sight. There was no one in sight, and there was no automobile, either. Nothing but a red tail-light that whisked out of sight at the other end of the street a second after she caught sight of it.

"But that must have been Kim," she thought, "and that must have been his car. What on earth was he doing here?"

The wonder of the thing had barely flicked her mind before it was gone. It couldn't have been Kim, she decided. Kim was at the Shore Club, twenty miles away. The man she had seen had simply suggested Kim to her because of his height and his white suit.

The flat was dark and silent when she opened the front door. She switched on the lights as she walked in with the sleeping baby in her arms. No, Kim had not been here. There were no cigarette stubs in the ash-trays in the sitting room.

Mary Faith wheeled the baby's bassinet into Mrs. Farrell's bedroom, the largest and coolest room in the flat, and then got into her own bed, taking with her a library book called "A Philosopher Looks at Life."

She took a serious "high-brow" book from the library every now and then. She wanted to know about things—to be able to talk intelligently—to educate herself.

"Kim's college-bred," she had often told herself, "and I'm not. He's a lawyer and he'll keep on going up in the world, and I must keep pace with him. I mustn't let myself turn into a mere housekeeper and mother."

There would come a time, she figured, when Kim and she would have friends who were above the Mahloms and their set. And when that time came, she would be ready for it. She would be a wife that any man could be proud of.

Hidden away on the top shelf of the pantry she had a book entitled "Etiquette," and even when she and Kim were alone, she served their simple meals as beautifully as a trained waitress could have served them.

"Some day," she often thought as she went about her work, "the Mahlmans are going to ask us to dinner, and we'll have to ask them here. And I'm going to know just how to do everything correctly."

As Astrologer Sees W. B. Cady

In a previous issue I told you something about the characteristics of Mr. Hedges and now we will take up the case of Mr. Cady who was born on January 19, 1877, according to the information given me.

On that date the Sun was in the sign Capricorn, the Moon in Pisces, and Mercury was in Aquarius. There we have a rather unique combination. The Sun is in a very practical sign, the Moon is in just the opposite kind of a sign, with Mercury the planet ruling the reasoning powers in a sign which tends toward political ventures. Often we find the Capricorn person in some office of public service. However, most of our famous politicians had strong Aquarian influences. Scorpio is also a political sign and Mr. Cady has that sign rising in his chart. The sign Capricorn makes the native want to rise to great heights, hence we find them seeking the higher political offices. They just can not be satisfied to stand still. The sign also makes them very prudent and many are very deep thinkers.

In this case which we have before us there is a square of Neptune to the Sun position and that alone usually makes the person of an idealist. This idealism is likely to be used in a way which would benefit the masses instead of just a few persons this being due to the position of Mercury in Aquarius. Yet I would not say that this man would carry his idealism too far—he has too many planets in the practical signs and he has a very critical sign rising.

I would say that he is very much governed by the way other persons affect his feelings. If he likes a person he will do great lengths to help him but if he does not like him he had better keep away. The chart indicates that he has a very liberal nature. Maybe too liberal for his own good. Right here I want to say that although Mr. Cady may make a good Mayor and be of exceptional benefit to the town, the position will not be best for him. There is an indication in his chart that public office is detrimental to his welfare. Remember I am using a date given to me and delineating from that—not using any opinion of my own. I have never seen the subject of this article. The ruler of this chart is square to the planet Saturn indicating to me that—he has had quite an uphill struggle through life to get what he wants and deserves.

You must know this man some time before you will understand him. It is likely that when he makes friends he keeps them. He has original ideas and these may be along the lines of government or they may be in the field of philosophy and religion. He must be a very active person and enjoy the more vigorous outdoor sports. It also looks like he could have made considerable money on inventions. The chart indicates some disturbance of the health such as liver trouble or some trouble with the feet. Asthma is often the disease affecting persons with a similar chart.

Danger in Appendicitis Increases With Delay

When This Disease Is Recognized Surgery Should Be Resorted to at Once

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

DESPITE THE increased skill and ability of modern surgery, appendicitis continues to be a serious and often fatal disease. Some will say this is a pretty pessimistic statement, but reports from different hospitals throughout the country confirm it. Let us consider why this is so.

Dr. Copeland

Even though surgical technique of today is far superior to that of twenty-five years ago, it is of no value to humanity unless advantage is taken of it. Miracles cannot be performed in surgery when the operation is delayed too long.

All physicians agree that when appendicitis is recognized and surgery resorted to immediately, danger is minimized. In these cases convalescence is rapid and complications are rarely encountered. Delay in operation of a diseased appendix is dangerous. It is especially dangerous since the appendix may rupture.

Don't Ignore Pain

Appendicitis, as its name implies, is an inflammation of the appendix. The appendix is a small tail-like structure at the end of the "cecum," a part of the large intestine. The inflammation can be traced to different germs. The severity of the inflammation depends upon the type of germ.

When the appendix ruptures, germs are liberated within the abdominal cavity. This leads to an inflammation of the peritoneum, or lining of the abdominal cavity. It is a serious complication of appendicitis and is called "peritonitis".

Too often the victim of appendicitis complains of pain and discomfort in the abdomen. He may ignore the pain and carelessly attribute it to some digestive disturbance. In spite of continued pain, a physician is not consulted. This is a mistake.

Dangerous Practices

In many instances the inflammation is made worse by self-medication, by the taking of castor oil or other laxative, for example. When appendicitis is present it is dangerous to take a strong laxative. It irritates the inflamed appendix and may cause it to rupture.

Persistent pain in the abdomen accompanied by fever and vomiting warrants immediate medical attention. Avoid all cathartics, let me repeat. Of course, all pain in the abdomen does not mean appendicitis. Nevertheless, it is best to be on the safe side and consult your physician.

If an operation is advised do not delay. Delay is dangerous. Immediate operation for appendicitis is the safest and surest procedure. Appendicitis requires prompt surgical attention, and delay of only a few hours may lead to a fatal outcome. I am confident that the number of fatalities resulting from appendicitis would be greatly decreased if all persons suffering from acute and severe abdominal pain would seek immediate medical advice.

She Was a Bird Too

By IRVIN S. COBB

A RECENT review of the works of the late James Lane Allen recalls to my mind a story which centered about a title of perhaps his most famous novel.

The story was that an elderly lady of a somewhat severe and spinsterish aspect entered a bookstore. She explained to the clerk that she wanted a book for entertainment on a train journey—preferably fiction.

"Well," he said, picking up a volume, "here is one which is very popular at present—The Kentucky Cardinal."

"I do not believe I'd care to read about a religious dignitary," she said.

"But Madam," explained the dealer, "this Kentucky cardinal was a bird."

"His private life means nothing to me," she answered with a deep chill in her voice. "If you have no chaste works that you can recommend, I'll go elsewhere."

The Market Crash

THE swift tumble taken by the stock market ought to be a warning to the public that Wall street offers no safe and quick way to fortune.

For about three months there had been a steady rise in stock prices, broken by occasional brief setback. Most of these dips were slight and were overcome almost immediately.

One result of the steady rise was to draw the public into the whirl of speculation. The professionals knew when to take their profits in one stock or in one class of stocks and to switch to another. The wet parade of states in ratifying the reapeal amendment directed attention to liquor issues. A mad scramble for these stocks soon was on,not because the earnings of distilling companies showed any substantial increase but on the prospect that prohibition would be repealed and open the way to larger profits. This represented purely gambling.

There are some industrial concerns which are profiting by the business revival and whose stocks filled many of the requirements of good investments. When the public is seized with the fever of speculation, however, little regard is paid by the uninformed to a company's earnings or prospects. Many grab almost blindly whatever stock is within easy reach of their financial means. Even good stocks soon are pushed far beyond safe bounds.

The inevitable result of such a condition is a crash, either of minor or major proportions. Buyers with slim margins behind their purchases are wiped out.

Experience seems to be no teacher when it comes to stock speculation. The speculator may lose everything he has, but as soon as he can get a new stake, back into the market he goes.

There appears to be no sound remedy for the condition, other than to let nature take its course.

Spreading Good Will

THE good-will mission of the Italian air squadron led by General Balbo was performed in a manner that must have been highly pleasing to Rome.

The bearded, youthful leader established with the American public an immediate popularity. The other members of his group who helped to bring the fleet of 24 planes safely across the Atlantic also won the admiration and esteem of Americans.

It is not solely because of their courage and skill that Americans extended them such a warm welcome. Their personality, individually and collectively, has in it a quality of friendliness that invites a reciprocal feeling.

The men represented the pick of Italy's flying service. They demonstrated on the long flight from Rome to Chicago that they are experts in their line. Then at the end of the journey, they proved that they are more than flyers. They are accomplished good-will diplomats.

The manner of their reception by the public here is of no less satisfaction to Americans generally than it is to Italians in their native country. The visit will serve to strengthen the friendly relations between the governments of the two countries as well as between the two peoples. This aspect of the flight is an important one.

Premier Mussolini is to be congratulated upon his selection of such a group as his good-will representatives. No less deserving is General Balbo and his men for the way they performed their mission.

Still Trying to Catch Up

"MARY FAITH"
by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Mary Faith said to herself that it wouldn't break her heart if Claire never did come home. It would suit her down to the ground if she never had to see Claire's dazzling smile and restless blue eyes again. All summer she had been dreading Claire's return and the return of all the things that Claire stood for. The card games and the cocktails and the promiscuous kissing that went on in the flat above Haltnorth Park —"the unclean antics of grown-up children," as a brilliant playwright had called such entertainments.

Two nights later Kim telephoned at five o'clock to say that he wouldn't be home for dinner. Some men he knew had asked him to go with them to a clam bake at the Shore Club, he explained.

"No women present," he added, with a laugh.

"In that case, your jealous wife will let you go," Mary Faith answered him cheerfully. "Have a good time, Kim."

She was glad that he was going to the Shore Club. It was fine for a man to spend an evening with other men occasionally—to get their viewpoint on things.

And the Shore Club. It meant something for a man to be invited there. It was a solid sort of institution, where the oldest and best families in the city played golf and danced and gave dinner-parties.

So Mary Faith, who had no social ambitions of her own, was filled with a sense of pride in Kim as she turned away from the telephone that afternoon. He was beginning to know the right sort of people, to go to the right sort of places, to be liked and respected by his business friends.

It was a beautiful afternoon, sunshiny and breezy. Mary Faith put the baby into his perambulator and started off for a walk through the park. The baby, pink and bright eyed from his afternoon nap, sat up against the pillows of his little cart and played with a rubber rabbit that Jean Bartlett had brought him.

It was cool and green under the trees. Mary Faith spread a blanket for him near her favorite bench and sat watching him in great contentment while she darned Kim's socks. By the time she had finished them and put them into her mending bag, it was six o'clock and the factory whistles were blowing in the distance.

"Time to start home," she said to the baby. "Time to go home and find the baby's bottle."

Then she decided all at once that she wouldn't go home for dinner. She'd go back to the flat for the bottle and then take the baby to Mrs. Puckett's. It would be nice to show him to her friends.

Mr. McClintock was sitting on the front steps, reading the evening paper, when she came within sight of the old red brick building with its shutters and its bay trees and its starched white curtains. Mrs. Puckett was standing in the doorway behind him and she came hurrying down the steps when she saw Mary Faith. She took the baby out of the perambulator, exclaiming over his adorable littleness and his amazing beauty.

"Look at those eyelashes, Mary Faith! If they ain't yours to a T!" she cried. "And look at his little nands and his feet—his little velvet feet!"

She horrified Mary Faith by giving him a crust of bread to chew on when they all went in to dinner,

She served their simple meals as beautifully as a trained waitress could have served them.

"Pshaw, he can't eat it, Mary Faith. He hasn't any teeth," she said. And when Mary Faith wouldn't let him have it, she went upstairs and came back with an old-fashioned ivory teething ring.

"There!" she said to him. "That's all your smart young mother will let you have. But your Aunt Puckett is going to make you a little muslin bag full of raisins when you really begin to cut your teeth."

"I brought up my two little sisters after my mother died," she said to Mary Faith, heaping her plate with baked ham and potato salad and fresh tomatoes in aspic jelly. "There ain't much that I don't know about raising babies. . . . Just remember that, in case you ever need any help with this precious mite!"

Mary Faith smiled at her happily. She would never need help with the baby. She was sure of that, she told herself. And not until long afterward did she realize that she had tucked Mrs. Puckett's words into some pigeonhole of her mind that night, to be taken out later and remembered with relief and gratitude.

She Was a Bird Too

By IRVIN S. COBB

A RECENT review of the works of the late James Lane Allen recalls to my mind a story which centered about a title of perhaps his most famous novel.

The story was that an elderly lady of a somewhat severe and spinsterish aspect entered a bookstore. She explained to the clerk that she wanted a book for entertainment on a train journey—preferably fiction.

"Well," he said, picking up a volume, "here is one which is very popular at present—The Kentucky Cardinal."

"I do not believe I'd care to read about a religious dignitary," she said.

"But Madam," explained the dealer, "this Kentucky cardinal was a bird."

"His private life means nothing to me," she answered with a deep chill in her voice. "If you have no chaste works that you can recommend, I'll go elsewhere."

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Europe's new hyg'enic "cornerless" architecture is responsible for the unusual modern settings designed by Cedric Gibbons for "Reunion in Vienna," John Barrymore's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which opens today at the Cliftona Theatre.

According to the noted art director, the new type of home construction reflects the European trend toward modernistic design and extensive use of solarium glass for free admission of healthful sun rays.

Diana Wynyard plays opposite Barrymore in the new picture and the cast includes Frank Morgan, Henry Travers, May Robson, Eduardo Ciannelli and Una Merkel. Sidney Franklin directed from the famous Robert E. Sherwood play.

AT THE GRAND

The depression has hit actors in Hollywood just as it has hit workers in all phases of industry but there is one player in the screen colony who apparently is constantly in demand.

He is Edwin Maxwell, now playing one of the principal roles in Columbia's "State Trooper," the current attraction at the Grand Theatre, a master of characterizations who has appeared in no less than 30 productions during the past three years.

Other members of the cast are Regis Toomey and Evalyn Knapp in the featured leads, Lew Kelly, Barbara Weeks, Raymond Hatton, Matthew Betz, Don Chapman, Walter McGrail. The picture was directed by D. Ross Lederman from the screen play by Lambert Hillyer and Stuart Anthony.

Limiting standard fertilizer mixture to 15 in number has led to marked improvement of the quality of fertilizer sold in Ohio and has reduced the cost a pound to the consumer.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Europe's new hygienic "cornerless" architecture is responsible for the unusual modern settings designed by Cedric Gibbons for "Reunion in Vienna," John Barrymore's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which opens today at the Cliftona Theatre.

According to the noted art director, the new type of home construction reflects the European trend toward modernistic design and extensive use of solarium glass for free admission of healthful sun rays.

Diana Wynyard plays opposite Barrymore in the new picture and the cast includes Frank Morgan, Henry Travers, May Robson, Eduardo Ciannelli and Una Merkel. Sidney Franklin directed from the famous Robert E. Sherwood play.

AT THE GRAND

The depression has hit actors in Hollywood just as it has hit workers in all phases of industry but there is one player in the screen colony who apparently is constantly in demand.

He is Edwin Maxwell, now playing one of the principal roles in Columbia's "State Trooper," the current attraction at the Grand Theatre, a master of characterizations who has appeared in no less that 39 productions during the past three years.

Other members of the cast are Regis Toomey and Evalyn Knapp in the featured leads, Lew Kelly, Barbara Weeks, Raymond Hatton, Matthew Betz, Don Chapman, Walter McGrail. The picture was directed by D. Ross Lederman from the screen play by Lambert Hillyer and Stuart Anthony.

Limiting standard fertilizer mixture to 15 in number has led to marked improvement of the quality of fertilizer sold in Ohio and has reduced the cost a pound to the consumer.

BRIDGE PARTY HONORS GUESTS FROM AKRON

A charming affair assembling twelve of her friends was the bridge party given by Mrs. Theodore Huston, N. Court-st, Tuesday evening, complimenting her sister, Mrs. John R. Alter, of Akron.

Contract bridge was the planned diversion and enjoyed at three tables. With the awarding of prizes to Mrs. George Crites, Mrs. Robert Musser and Mrs. Harold Grant, a lovely gift was presented the honor guest.

A number of vari-colored summer flowers were artistically arranged throughout the home. Pink was predominant in the serving of a delicious collation at the attractive small tables which were lighted with pink tapers.

Guests at the delightful party included Mrs. Alter, Mrs. Ross Kramer, Mrs. C. E. Kramer and Mrs. Joseph Yearling, of Columbus; Mrs. Bishop Given, Mrs. Robert Musser, Mrs. Harold Grant, Mrs. Donald Watt, Miss Evangela Smith, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mrs. George Crites and Miss Marian Hitler.

MRS. CROMLEY, HOSTESS AT LUNCHEON-BRIDGE

A delightful affair was the luncheon-bridge given by Mrs. Paul Cromley at her home near Ashville, Tuesday afternoon.

Garden flowers artistically arranged formed an attractive centerpiece for the table where a delicious luncheon was served at one o'clock.

The pleasant hours following the luncheon were spent in bridge in play at two tables with attractive favors for high score at the conclusion of the interesting game going to Mrs. Donald Watt and Miss Katherine Goeller.

Guests at the lovely party were Mrs. Harold Eveland, Mrs. Frank Kline Jr., Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Dwight Steele, Mrs. Donald Watt, Miss Katherine Goeller, this city, and Mrs. Charles Blundell of Akron.

"CHILD OF PRAYER TO TORCH SINGER," 'SISTER' DECLARES

BALTIMORE, July 26.—"David said he was a child of prayer and wanted to labor in the vineyard. But now it seems he is to become a torch singer, singing ballads of unrequited love. It's all so strange."

This is what Sister Aimee Semple MacPherson, apostle of the Four-Square Gospel, had to say upon debarking here today concerning her husband, David Hutton, filing action for divorce.

7 ARMY MEN DIE IN CRASH

Wing Torn From Amphibian Causes Crash; All Unable To Use 'Chutes.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 26.—Death rode the skies with a United States army amphibian airplane and today the bodies of seven army fliers were in the morgue here, killed when their plane lost a wing and fell 2000 feet at Oceanside, Cal.

The dead:

Lieut. Carl A. Murray, Filer, Idaho.

Sergeant Archie Snodgrass, San Antonio, Tex.

Sergent Bonnell Herrick, Warsaw, Ind.

Private Vincent Galdin, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Private Stanley Book, Detroit, Mich.

Private Walter T. Caylor, Los Angles.

Private Albert Overend, Coronado, Cal.

All were wearing parachutes, but in some manner were trapped in the falling wreckage, eye witnesses said.

The plane, commanded by Lieut. Murray, was en route on a service mission from its home base, March field, Riverside, Cal., to Rockwell field, San Diego, when the accident occurred. Murray had cut off the motor before the plane crashed.

What caused the left wing to be torn from the fuselage was to be inquired into at a military investigation and inquest here today.

TIRE PRICES UP

AKRON, July 26.—Eight major Akron rubber companies today announced a flat increase of 10 per cent in automobile tire prices, effective immediately.

The concerns joining in the move were Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone, General, Mohawk, Indin, Seiberling and The Falls Company.

Advances in the cost of crude rubber and cotton the latter rising because of curtailed machine working hours in the textile industry, were given as the causes for the tire boosts.

HOSE IS SLASHED

William Mack, proprietor of the Shell Service station, E. Main-st, was gotten out of bed about 1:30 a. m. Wednesday when he heard water pouring out of a hose in front of the station. He investigated and discovered that someone had cut about a foot off the hose.

W. A. Anderson, merchant policeman, reported the act to police headquarters but officers were unable to find the culprit.

SCHOOL MAN DIES

Owners of all three say:
SOHIO X-70
IS MORE POPULAR THAN NEXT 5 GASOLINES COMBINED
Statewide Survey by R. L. Polk & Co. reveals
FORD, CHEVROLET AND PLYMOUTH OWNERS AGREE ON GASOLINE CHOICE

R. L. Polk and Company, famous statisticians, visited 13 Ohio cities, asked over 19,000 owners of Fords, Chevrolets and Plymouths what gasoline they preferred—and why. Three hundred and eighty-two different brands of gasoline were named. 4647 votes were cast for X-70 alone—4574 for the next five gasolines combined. A tankful of X-70 will tell you why such leadership exists.

Owners of all makes of cars, old and new, big and small, low-priced and high-priced pinned the blue ribbon for honest quality on X-70. Their opinions will, we hope, suggest to you that if you have not tried X-70 lately you are missing something.

What do you want—in a gasoline? Over half of Sohio X-70 users gave as the leading reason for their choice "all 'round good performance—okay for anti-knock, mileage, pick-up, hill-climbing and anything else."

The second largest group of X-70 enthusiasts said the long mileage they got was most important. A good many mentioned the convenience of Sohio stations and the courteous service given by Sohio men. All these things you want, don't you? Have you tried X-70 lately?

And, by the way— A similar survey was made in 1930 when our "regular" gasoline was Red Crown. X-70 replaced Red Crown in 1931. This present survey shows X-70 to be five times as popular now as Red Crown was in 1930!

What's in a Word?

TAVERN

The word saloon was "outlawed" in Wisconsin when C. E. Broughton, Sheboygan publisher, suggested the word tavern be inserted in the new law governing the sale of beer. Mr. Broughton, militant fighter against prohibition, had in mind substitution so that Anti-Saloon League would have to search for new target.

BRIDGE PARTY HONORS SISTER FROM AKRON

A charming affair assembling twelve of her friends was the bridge party given by Mrs. Theodore Huston, N. Court-st, Tuesday evening, complimenting her sister, Mrs. John R. Alter, of Akron.

Contract bridge was the planned diversion and enjoyed at three tables. With the awarding of prizes to Mrs. George Crites, Mrs. Robert Musser and Mrs. Harold Grant, a lovely gift was presented the honor guest.

A number of vari-colored summer flowers were artistically arranged throughout the home. Pink was predominant in the serving of a delicious collation at the attractive small tables which were lighted with pink tapers.

Guests at the delightful party included Mrs. Alter, Mrs. Ross Kramer, Mrs. C. E. Kramer and Mrs. Joseph Yearling, of Columbus; Mrs. Bishop Given, Mrs. Robert Musser, Mrs. Harold Grant, Mrs. Donald Watt, Miss Evangela Smith, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mrs. George Crites and Miss Marian Hitler.

MRS. CROMLEY, HOSTESS AT LUNCHEON-BRIDGE

A delightful affair was the luncheon-bridge given by Mrs. Paul Cromley at her home near Ashville, Tuesday afternoon.

Garden flowers artistically arranged formed an attractive centerpiece for the table where a delicious luncheon was served at one o'clock.

The pleasant hours following the luncheon were spent in bridge in play at two tables with attractive favors for high score at the conclusion of the interesting game going to Mrs. Donald Watt and Miss Katherine Goeller.

Guests at the lovely party were Mrs. Harold Eveland, Mrs. Frank Kline Jr., Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Dwight Steele, Mrs. Donald Watt, Miss Katherine Goeller, this city, and Mrs. Charles Blundell of Akron.

What's in a Word?

The word saloon was "outlawed" in Wisconsin when C. E. Broughton, Sheboygan publisher, suggested the word tavern be inserted in the new law governing the sale of beer. Mr. Broughton, militant fighter against prohibition, had in mind substitution so that Anti-Saloon League would have to search for new target.

"CHILD OF PRAYER TO TORCH SINGER," 'SISTER' DECLARES

BALTIMORE, July 26.—"David said he was a child of prayer and wanted to labor in the vineyard. But now it seems he is to become a torch singer, singing ballads of unrequited love. It's all so strange."

This is what Sister Aimee Semple MacPherson, apostle of the Four-Square Gospel, had to say upon debarking here today concerning her husband, David Hutton, filing action for divirce.

7 ARMY MEN DIE IN CRASH

Wing Torn From Amphibian Causes Crash; All Unable To Use 'Chutes.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 26.—Death rode the skies with a United States army ahphibian airplane and today the bodies of seven army fliers were in the morgue here, killed when their plane lost a wing and fell 2000 feet at Oceanside, Cal.

The dead:

Lieut. Carl A. Murray, Filer, Idaho.

Sergeant Archie Snodgrass, San Antonio, Tex.

Sergent Bonnell Herrick, Warsaw, Ind.

Private Vincent Galdin, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Private Stanley Book, Detroit, Mich.

Private Walter T. Caylor, Los Angles.

Private Albert Overend, Coronado, Cal.

All were wearing parachutes, but in some manner were trapped in the falling wreckage, eye witnesses said.

The plane, commanded by Lieut. Murray, was en route on a service mission from its home base, March field, Riverside, Cal., to Rockwell field, San Diego, when the accident occurred. Murray had cut off the motor before the plane crashed.

What caused the left wing to be torn from the fuselage was to be inquired into at a military investigation and inquest here today.

Ford Plymouth CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT CHEVROLET

Owners of all three say:

SOHIO X-70
IS MORE POPULAR
THAN NEXT 5 GASOLINES
COMBINED

Statewide Survey by R. L. Polk & Co. reveals

FORD, CHEVROLET AND PLYMOUTH OWNERS
AGREE ON GASOLINE CHOICE

R. L. Polk and Company, famous statisticians, visited 13 Ohio cities, asked over 19,000 owners of Fords, Chevrolets and Plymouths what gasoline they preferred—and why. Three hundred and eighty-two different brands of gasoline were named. 4647 votes were cast for X-70 alone—4574 for the next five gasolines combined. A tankful of X-70 will tell you why such leadership exists.

Owners of all makes of cars, old and new, big and small, low-priced and high-priced pinned the blue ribbon for honest quality on X-70. Their opinions will, we hope, suggest to you that if you have not tried X-70 lately you are missing something.

What do you want—in a gasoline? Over half of Sohio X-70 users gave as the leading reason for their choice "all 'round good performance—okay for anti-knock, mileage, pick-up, hill-climbing and anything else."

The second largest group of X-70 enthusiasts said the long mileage they got was most important. A good many mentioned the convenience of Sohio stations and the courteous service given by Sohio men. All these things you want, don't you? Have you tried X-70 lately?

And, by the way*—A similar survey was made in 1930 when our "regular" gasoline was Red Crown. X-70 replaced Red Crown in 1931. This present survey shows X-70 to be five times as popular now as Red Crown was in 1930!
